Your Confidence Roadmap

BRIGHT WIRE

When plans change, you don't need every answer to make a thoughtful next move. These questions can help you draw on your experience, check your thinking, and decide what comes next.

1. Notice what has changed

Curiosity · Coach-Like

What has changed, and what were you counting on that may no longer hold?

2. Draw on your experience

Adaptable · Disciplined for Results

Think of a time you found your way through uncertainty. What helped and what could you draw on now?

3. Check what still holds

Mental Agility · Disciplined for Results

Given what you know now, what still makes sense and what needs another look?

4. Choose your next step

Future Orientation · Courageous

What is one responsible step you can take this week with the information you have?

5. Work through it together

Leads Transformational Change · Relational

Who needs to be involved, and what do you need to understand from one another?

You don't need a predictable world to find your footing. You bring experience, judgment, relationships, and the ability to learn. Those give you something to work with, even when the outcome is uncertain.

You cannot control every change. You can influence your next move, your relationships, and how you navigate together.
